Humber College is located within the traditional and treaty lands of the Mississaugas of the Credit. Known as Adoobiigok, the “Place of the Alders” in Michi Saagiig language, the region is uniquely situated along Humber River Watershed, which historically provided an integral connection for Anishinaabe, Haudenosaunee, and Wendat peoples between the Ontario Lakeshore and Lake Simcoe/Georgian Bay regions. Now home to people of numerous nations, Adoobiigok continues to provide a vital source of interconnection for all.

[The course rationale explains the purpose of the course within the program. It is context oriented and explains why this course is important to a student's overall success in the program. It should not be more than 2 sentences.

Example course rationale:

This foundational course introduces students to the purpose of television commercials within the broader field of advertising. Knowledge acquired in this course will be used throughout the student's program and professional career.]

Program Learning Outcomes Emphasized in this Course:

[List only the program learning outcomes (PLOs) that are identified as emphasized in this course. Consult with your AD/Program coordinator to identify which outcomes and skills via the program map are part of this course. Your course learning outcomes (CLOs) that are included later on in the outline should map to these individual PLOs.

Example of PLOs:

1. Communicate and collaborate effectively and professionally with clients, colleagues and members of an interprofessional team
2. Collect and assess clients' strategy to create television commercials.

An elective will state: Diploma level standards are addressed in this course by: Engaging students in learning outside of their main area of study to increase awareness of themselves, our society, and the diverse richness of the human experience, while cultivating their role as global citizens. Developing students' abilities in critical thinking by requiring the synthesis of concepts across sources, the creation, evaluation and analysis of arguments, with the aim of enhancing their abilities to anticipate, articulate and resolve problems.]

Essential Employability Skills Emphasized in this Course:

[List only the Essential Employability Skills (EES) that are identified as emphasized in this course. Essential Employability Skills are transferable skills that provide the foundation for a student's academic, vocational, and personal success. Mark only those EES that are taught/reinforced and assessed in this course. There is no expectation that all will be present in a single course.]

Course Format(s)

[Identify the delivery format of the course, i.e. hybrid, on-line, face to face. If the course is delivered in multiple modes indicate all the modes of delivery. Indicate whether this a laboratory class or if there is a laboratory component that accompanies the lecture/face to face format. This is not the place to indicate the learning methods.

Examples of course format language:

This course is a hybrid (blended) course, with two classroom hours per week plus online learning activities for approximately one hour (virtual) per week.

Or

This course is offered in multiple delivery formats (online and face to face). For the lab component of the course, students will need to purchase sketching materials to participate in the lab activities.]

Course Learning Outcomes

[The course learning outcomes (CLOs) are central to your curriculum and describe learner performance in the course (not the instructor's activities or strategies). A CLO is measurable, observable and written in a specific statement that clearly indicates what the student should know and be able to do as a result of what they learn in the course. The number of CLOs listed should be between 6-10 for a 42 hour course.

A well-written CLO involves the following parts:

1. An action verb;
2. Subject content;
3. Level of achievement; and
4. Condition of performance (if applicable).

Begin each CLO statement with an action verb (refer to a learning taxonomy, i.e. Bloom's, ICE, etc.) that describes what the learner will be able to do upon completion of the course. CLOs should have only one verb, and only one area of significant subject content. If your CLO includes multiple verbs, select the one that articulates the highest level of learning that students will demonstrate in the course. If your CLO includes multiple topics, select the one that articulates the key outcome. Describe a performance that is observable and can be assessed.

Examples of course learning outcomes:

- Identify the elements of an academic research essay, including summarizing and paraphrasing, in order to incorporate multiple points of view in a sustained synthesis supporting an original thesis.
- Develop a plan of care according to the client's condition and the treatment goals
- Describe the mechanisms involved in the digestion and absorption of carbohydrates, proteins, and lipids
- Produce an original decoration and design portfolio to contain personal product and process photos, material requirements and estimated labour cost.

Accreditation Standards, Professional Competencies, etc., should be listed after the course learning outcomes.

Assessment Weighting

[List all summative assessments and the weight of each assessment.]

Some examples of summative assessments are Personal Reflections, Ideation Assignments, Mid-term Tests, Presentations, Projects, etc.

The total of the summative assessments should equal 100%.]

Modules of Study

[Module and Topic - This should not be based on weeks, i.e. Week 1, Week 2. Instead organize the units/modules based on thematic units or content foci that encapsulates a few weeks of class time.

Course Learning Outcomes - Use numbers from the list of CLOs to be emphasized. Avoid over-repetition of CLOs.

Resources - Include chapters, pages, videos, websites, etc. to be completed before or used during class – all to be referenced in the resources section.

Assessments - List all types of assessment tools– self, peer, group, instructor-led, diagnostic, formative and summative). For each summative assessment tool, identify either that the tool is pass/fail or assign a specific percentage value for that assignment. Link each assessment with its corresponding CLO.]
