

Transgender Day of Remembrance: A Transgender Journey from Lived Experience

Michelle Emson

Session Description:

Michelle Emson shares her journey of transition in the context of Transgender Day of Remembrance. Learn from Michelle's lived experience and acquire a richer understanding of some of the challenges that face transgender people in society, in work, and in life.

Michelle Emson (she/her) is an international human rights advocate specializing in diversity and inclusion, trans rights, 2SLGBTQI issues, and mental health. An award-winning public speaker, Michelle has been delivering professional workshops and talks since 2012 to clients in education, healthcare, corporate, policing, and government both in Canada and internationally.

Michelle is an author, entrepreneur, and documentary filmmaker supplementing a life-long career in information technology. In 2017, she received a YWCA Women of Distinction Award for her work. Michelle identifies as a lesbian woman with a transgender lived experience.
