

DSLR Filmmaking for Photographers

NEW COURSE In today's digital environment, photographers must keep up with the fast pace of changing tools and techniques. This new course at Humber College introduces photographers to digital filmmaking using Digital Single-Lens Reflex (DSLR) cameras.

Through hands-on course work, students will learn to capture moving images in a variety of formats, edit sequences in Adobe Photoshop and post finished films on YouTube. The course will also examine the underlying technical traits of picture and audio deliverables, formats, and simple workflows.

The 2-hour course will take place Tuesday evenings from May 13 - July 22. As well, a 3-hour course runs from May 13 - July 8. Call 416-675-6622 ext. 4508, visit media studies humber.ca/ce or email cesmsit@humber.ca.
