

HUMBER

Liberal Arts & Sciences

PRESIDENT'S LECTURE SERIES

2016/17

THURS, FEBRUARY 16TH, 2017
LAKESHORE CAMPUS, COMMUNITY ROOM (L1017),
1:00 TO 2:00 P.M., Q&A + RECEPTION TO FOLLOW

This lecture will also be live streamed on the President's Lecture Series homepage:

 bit.ly/HumberPLS2016

Follow us on Twitter at @HumberPLS

MODERN LOVE IS ALL-CONSUMING

Dr. Marina Adshade

VANCOUVER SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS, UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

With the increasing independence of both men and women, the economic gains to marriage have diminished dramatically. But if the purpose of love is no longer to ensure our economic well-being, is modern love all consumption? The nature of love might seem like an unlikely topic for an economist, but it is useful to understand how treating love as a commodity is affecting our relationships. In this lecture, Dr. Adshade will argue that this change in perspective is good for relationships because it encourages us to love consciously and to treat love as an informed decision rather than a flight of fancy.

Contact

Ian Gerrie

Chair, President's Lecture Series Committee

416.675.6622 ext 72051 or ian.gerrie@humber.ca

EVERYONE WELCOME!

WE ARE OPENING THE CONVERSATION