

Teaching Innovation Fund Application

A support package including $1200 per investigator, a SoTL research guidebook, mentorship and assistance from the CTL, and a network of peers, to help faculty develop and conduct a project focused on a teaching and learning research question.

Applicant Information:

Project Title:
Principal Investigator:
Status: (Full-Time/Part-Time/Partial-Load)
Program:
School:
Email:
Co-Investigator (if applicable):
Co-Investigator (if applicable):

Have you applied to the Teaching & Innovation Fund before?

If yes, is this: (select one)

- A return to a previously incomplete project
- The next phase of a completed project
- A different project, based on a different idea

Are you currently on probationary status?

Eligibility:

All faculty (full-time, part-time, and partial load) are eligible to hold the fund. Faculty may apply jointly to share a combined, larger fund for a collaborative project. The fund cannot support research that contributes directly to credentials.

Project Description:

Briefly, please describe your idea for a research project. What are you trying to discover? What teaching & learning problem will this project address? What change do you think you might observe in your students as a result? 3-5 sentences is sufficient.

Would you describe this research project as:

- Building or designing a new pedagogical tool or approach
- Measuring the impact of a pedagogical tool or approach with students

Project Development:

First-time applicants are required to attend two proposal development workshops, and submit a proposal afterward. Workshop spaces are limited, and will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. Please indicate which set of workshops you will attend:
