

2021 RAP RESEARCH FORUM

November 18

VIRTUAL EVENT

Dr. Cynthia Wesley-Esquimaux

Dr. Wesley-Esquimaux was inducted as a “Honourary Witness” by the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2014 and appointed as the 1st Indigenous Chair for Truth and Reconciliation in Canada for Lakehead University in 2016. She continues to develop pathways forward to reconciliation across Canada.

Dr. David Danto

Dr. Danto is a clinical psychologist and Head of Psychology at the University of Guelph-Humber. His clinical and research interests include Indigenous wellness and culture-based approaches to addressing intergenerational trauma in local and global contexts.

RECONCILIATION AND RESEARCH

Humber's Research Analyst Graduate Certificate Program invites you to its stellar annual research event, the RAP Research Forum. The 2021 Research Forum continues its tradition of showcasing insightful student work, and hosting enlightening speakers.

This year's distinguished panel will address the theme, Reconciliation and Research. The panel will discuss how the paradigms that structure and support positivist, scholastic, and commercial approaches to research might be restructured and invigorated in the light of Indigenous ways of knowing, being, and doing, so as to revivify the relationships between the researcher, the researched, and the community.
