

Teaching Innovation Fund

Winter 2021 Application

A support package including $1400 per investigator, mentorship and assistance from Teaching + Learning, and a network of peers, to help faculty develop and conduct a project focused on a teaching and learning research question. Questions? Contact Laura.Page@humber.ca

Applicant Information

Project Title

Principal Investigator:

Status: (Full-Time/Part-Time/Partial-Load)

Program & School:

Associate Dean:

Email:

Co-Investigator (if applicable):

Co-Investigator (if applicable):

Have you applied to the Teaching & Innovation Fund before? If yes, is this: (select one)

A return to a previously incomplete project

The next phase of a completed project

A different project, based on a different idea

Eligibility

All faculty (full-time, part-time, and partial load) are eligible to hold the fund. Up to three faculty may apply jointly to share a combined, larger fund for a collaborative project (to a maximum of $4200). An individual faculty may only act as Principal Investigator on one TIF project at a time. The fund cannot support research that contributes directly to credentials.

Project Description

Briefly, please describe your idea for a research project. What are you trying to discover? What teaching & learning problem will this project address? What change do you think you might observe in your students as a result?

Would you describe this research project as:

Building or designing a new pedagogical tool or approach

Measuring the impact of a pedagogical tool or approach with students

Project Development

Applicants are required to attend two 2-hour proposal development workshops, submit a proposal, and attend two additional sessions after data collection. All projects that submit an acceptable proposal—in consultation with the CTL SoTL department—will be granted funding.

Please indicate which set of workshops you plan to attend:
