

We're excited to announce that Humber is participating in the Map The System 2021 Competition!

Map the System is a global competition that challenges us to think differently about social and environmental change. Rather than jumping straight into a solution, business plan or an idea to fix problems, Map the System asks us to use 'systems thinking' to understand complex social and environmental challenges.

We invite you to learn more on Wednesday, December 2 from 2:00 – 3:00 pm. This virtual session will be held on MS Teams. To register, please click here: https://mapthesystem2021humber_event_registration.eventbrite.ca

Starbucks and Ubereats gift cards will be raffled off during the session!

What happens in Map the System?

Students will:

- Develop systems level thinking
- Formulate ways to visually map a complex system
- Build research and presentation skills
- Forge new connections with innovators and changemakers
- Compete to be the winning Humber team that will present at the Canadian virtual finals
- Compete to present at the University of Oxford virtual finals and win cash prizes

Faculty can:

- Embed the competition in a course you are teaching - join us!
- Share information about the competition to interested students
- Support student groups who register as independent Humber teams

Have questions? Email us!

Elinor at elinor.bray-collins@humber.ca or Sara at sara.hassan@humber.ca