CALL FOR PROPOSALS

Humber's Innovative Learning is hosting its annual Part-Time Teachers' Conference at the International Graduate School Campus located in downtown Toronto. This hybrid conference is for part-time faculty in Ontario colleges. There is no cost to attend this event.

Proposals are now accepted for 60-minute sessions. Please indicate if your session will be offered on-campus or hybrid (on-campus & virtually).

This year's conference theme is: "Personalizing the Learning Journey"

Teaching in today's college classroom involves navigating many competing demands, particularly as we begin the transition away from pandemic-driven strategies. The conference theme encourages presenters to reflect on how we can embrace technology-enhanced teaching, consider the needs of diverse student populations, and empower students to take active roles in their education.

Presentations will focus on one or more of the following subthemes:

- Student success in transitioning learning spaces (e.g., teaching the post-pandemic student, online/hybrid/HyFlex teaching)
- Supporting achievement among diverse students (e.g., focus on accessibility, flexible learning, anti-racist approaches, decolonization)
- Instructor tool kits to support student learning (e.g., technology-enhanced teaching, hands-on learning experiences, methods for developing practical skills)

Proposals will be reviewed based on the following criteria:

- Relevance of the proposal to the conference theme
- Topic connection to current practices in teaching and learning
- Plans for how attendees will be engaged in the session
- Clear session outcomes and overall clarity of the proposal
