EQUITY AND TECHNOLOGY IN RESEARCH: MULTIPLYING BENEFITS OR CREATING DIVISIONS?

Cultural critic, Neil Postman, has stated that "Every technology is both a burden and blessing."* Given the increasing use of digital technology in data collection and analysis, we should ask the question, "Who is benefitting from this trend, and who is not being counted or heard?" Given the answer, we can move forward by discussing strategies or methods to address inequities created by the use of such technologies.
