

Teaching Innovation Fund Application

A support package including $1400 per investigator, a SoTL research guidebook, mentorship and assistance from the CTL, and a network of peers, to help faculty develop and conduct a project focused on a teaching and learning research question.

Applicant Information:

Project Title:
Principal Investigator:
Status: (Full-Time/Part-Time/Partial-Load)
Program & School:
Associate Dean:
Email:
Co-Investigator (if applicable):
Co-Investigator (if applicable):

- Have you applied to the Teaching & Innovation Fund before?
If yes, is this: (select one)
- A return to a previously incomplete project
 - The next phase of a completed project
 - A different project, based on a different idea

Eligibility:

All faculty (full-time, part-time, and partial load) are eligible to hold the fund. Up to three faculty may apply jointly to share a combined, larger fund for a collaborative project (to a maximum of $4200). An individual faculty may only act as Principal Investigator on one TIF project at a time. The fund cannot support research that contributes directly to credentials.

Project Description:

Briefly, please describe your idea for a research project. What are you trying to discover? What teaching & learning problem will this project address? What change do you think you might observe in your students as a result?

Would you describe this research project as:

- Building or designing a new pedagogical tool or approach
- Measuring the impact of a pedagogical tool or approach with students

Project Development:

Applicants are required to attend two 2-hour proposal development workshops, and submit a proposal afterward. All projects that submit an acceptable proposal – in consultation with the CTL SoTL department – will be granted funding.

Please indicate which set of workshops you plan to attend:
