

Teaching Innovation Fund

Spring 2019 Application

---

A support package including $1400 per investigator, a SoTL research guidebook, mentorship and assistance from the CTL, and a network of peers, to help faculty develop and conduct a project focused on a teaching and learning research question.

Applicant Information

Project Title

Principal Investigator:

Status: (Full-Time/Part-Time/Partial-Load)

Program & School:

Associate Dean:

Email:

Co-Investigator (if applicable):

Co-Investigator (if applicable):

Have you applied to the Teaching & Innovation Fund before? If yes, is this: (select one)

- A return to a previously incomplete project
- The next phase of a completed project
- A different project, based on a different idea

Eligibility

All faculty (full-time, part-time, and partial load) are eligible to hold the fund. Up to three faculty may apply jointly to share a combined, larger fund for a collaborative project (to a maximum of $4200). An individual faculty may only act as Principal Investigator on one TIF project at a time. The fund cannot support research that contributes directly to credentials.

Project Description

Briefly, please describe your idea for a research project. What are you trying to discover? What teaching & learning problem will this project address? What change do you think you might observe in your students as a result?

Would you describe this research project as:

Building or designing a new pedagogical tool or approach

Measuring the impact of a pedagogical tool or approach with students

Project Development

Applicants are required to attend two 2-hour proposal development workshops, and submit a proposal afterward. All projects that submit an acceptable proposal—in consultation with the CTL SoTL department—will be granted funding.

Please indicate which set of workshops you plan to attend:

Workshop #1	Workshop #2	Location	Time	(X) I will attend this set
